Ancient Egyptian Potters.

a, e, f, g, h, the wheel on which the clay was put. Fig. 1 forms the inside and lip of the cup as it turns on the wheel; x, y, z, c, d, e, of one cup already made. Fig. 2 forms the outside of the cup, indenting it with the hand at the base, preparatory to making color on. Fig. 3 has just taken off the cup from the clay. l. Fig. 4 puts on a fresh piece of clay. Fig. 5 forms a roundish flat of clay with his two hands. Fig. 6 the last prepares the oven. q. At s is the fire, which goes through the long narrow tube or chimney of the oven, upon the top of which the cups are placed to bake, m, n. Fig. 7 molds the cup to the baker, p. Fig. 9 carries away the baked cups from the oven.
